We will discuss how benefits including open space, new streets and sidewalks, and affordable housing can be created through the development process. Market consultants will share the findings of their analysis of Glover's Corner. Attendees will have the opportunity to participate in a hands-on activity to review how existing housing is preserved, and how new affordable and market rate housing gets built.

A follow-up deep dive session will be held on September 24th at 6:00 PM, at DotHouse Health: 1353 Dorchester Avenue. This additional public meeting is geared to those interested in a more detailed look at the numbers and assumptions used in the consultant analysis.
